Preface.

AS stated in my Heraldry of the Douglasses, the similarity of the Arms borne by that family and by the Murrays suggests a common origin. The Douglasses bore: Argent, on a chief azure three stars of the field (Plate II., fig. 1); and the Murrays of Bothwell bore: Azure, three stars argent.

The name of Murray is derived from their first lands in Moray, the owner being styled "de Moravia," which gradually became Moray or Murray. The families of Bothwell and Abercairny were Morays, and all the others Murrays.

The different families of Moray or Murray are apparently all descended from the Morays of Bothwell, but the connecting links are now lost, and the origin of each family is a matter of conjecture or dispute. The families resemble so many cords or lines originally falling from a single knot; but the connecting link or knot has been cut off, so that each line is now separate from the others.

ARMORIAL BEARINGS.

The MORAYS OF BOTHWELL bore: Azure, three stars argent, and when that Lordship passed to the Douglasses a Royal tressure was added, as can be seen on the Garter Plate of James, ninth Earl of Douglas, 1461.

The Earls of Sutherland and their cadets, all descended from Moray of Bothwell, "differenced" their Arms by changing the field to gules and the stars to or.

The MURRAYS OF ATHOLL originally bore: Three stars with a label of three points in chief. After the marriage of Sir William Murray in 1284 with Ada, daughter of Sir Malise, Steward of Strathearn, a chevron was added between the stars—the Arms of the Earldom of Strathearn being Or, two chevrons gules. The Seal of Sir William Murray in 1501 shows that this family had then adopted the Arms of Moray of Bothwell, as shown on the ninth Earl of Douglas' Garter Plate of 1461: Azure, three stars argent within a double tressure flory-counter-flory or.

The Viscounts Stormont, cadets of Atholl, adopted as their difference a cross patty between the stars, the cross being derived from the Arms of Barclay of Kippo, whose heiress married the first of these Murrays.

The Murrays of Ochtertyre have not assumed the double tressure, but have the curious difference of a cross argent surmounted by a saltire gules between the stars.

The Earl of Dysart has an Imperial crown proper between the stars.

The MURRAYS OF TOUCHADAM AND POLMAISE had adopted the double tressure round the stars as early as 1463, as is shown by the Seal of Sir William Murray, so that they were only two years, at most, later than the Earl of Douglas in doing so.

The MORAYS OF ABERCAIRNY quartered the Moray Arms and double tressure with the Arms of Strathearn, but originally they apparently bore a chevron between the stars.

The MURRAYS OF FALAHILL adopted the difference borne by the Douglasses: Argent, on a chief azure three stars of the field, but on the field they added a hunting horn to show descent from the Forresters.

The second family of Blackbarony and the Murrays of Elibank, cadets of Falahill, changed the hunting horn into a fetterlock to show descent from the Lockharts.

The MURRAYS OF COCKPOOL had adopted the double tressure round the stars as early as 1477; in 1542 they had apparently adopted the common Border Arms founded on those of the Bruces: A saltire and chief, the latter charged with the three stars; and in 1612 had reverted to their original Arms.

The original family of Blackbarony began with Arms similar to those borne at first by Murray of Atholl, namely, Three stars with a label in chief, but the label has five points in place of three as borne by the Atholl family.

It will be seen from the above that the most of the families of Murray have, sooner or later, added the Royal tressure round their original stars.

The principal authority is given at the commencement of each family, but additions and corrections have been made where considered necessary.

To save space I have, as usual, omitted courtesy titles—"His Grace," "Lord," "Lady," etc.—and also, as before, I have recorded the males alone.

My sincere thanks are due to Sir James Balfour Paul, Lord Lyon King-of-Arms; to Mr F. J. Grant, Lyon Depute; and Mr W. Rae Macdonald, Albany Herald, for much assistance kindly given me.

The Morays of Bothwell and the Sutherlands.

PEDIGREE I.

The Morays of Bothwell and the Sutherlands.

CHAPTER I.

The Morays of Bothwell.

Principal Authority—Scots Peerage.

THE first known ancestor of this family was Freskin, who accompanied King David I. to suppress an insurrection in the North in 1130, and was granted lands in Moray, which districts, under the forms of Moray or Murray, gave a surname to his descendants. He also held the lands of Strabrok, in Linlithgow. From him descended the Morays, Lords of Bothwell; and the families of Sutherland, Earls of Sutherland and Lords Duffus; the Sutherlands of Forse, etc.

(1) FRESKIN, above referred to, died before 1171, leaving three sons:—

- (a) William (No. 2).
- (b) Hugh, ancestor of the Earls of Sutherland (No. 13).
- (c) Andrew, probably Bishop of Moray 1184-85.

(2) WILLIAM, obtained about 1168 a charter of the lands of Strabrok, Duffus, etc., and died about 1203, leaving at least three sons:—

- (a) Hugh de Moravia, held the lands of Strabrok and Duffus, and died about 1226, leaving two sons:—
 - (1) Walter, married Eufemia, daughter of Ferchard, Earl of Ross, and had a son:—
 - (a) Freskin, Lord of Duffus, married Johanna, Lady Strathnaver, by whom he had two daughters.
 - (2) Andrew, Bishop of Moray 1223-42.
- (b) William (No. 3).
- (c) Andrew, Parson of Duffus 1209.

(3) WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, was Lord of Petyn, Brachlie, and Boharm. He died before 5th October 1226, leaving two sons:—

- (a) Sir Walter (No. 4).
- (b) William, Canon of Moray.

(4) SIR WALTER DE MORAVIA, LORD OF PETYN, died 1244, and was succeeded by his son:—

- (5) SIR WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, died before March 1253. He married a daughter of Malcolm, Earl of Fife, and had a son :—
- (6) SIR WALTER DE MORAVIA, died 1284. Besides the property in Moray, he owned Bothwell in Clydesdale, and Smailholm and Crailing in Roxburgh. The lands of Bothwell had belonged to the Olifards, and it was either the daughter or sister of Sir David Olifard who brought this property to the Morays. Sir Walter had at least two sons :—
- (a) Sir William (No. 7).
 - (b) Sir Andrew (No. 8).

- (7) SIR WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, LORD OF BOTHWELL, died before 10th November 1300. He swore fealty to King Edward I. in 1296.

Arms on Seal, 1296.—Three stars (Laing's Seals). [Plate II., fig. 2.]

He was succeeded by his brother :—

- (8) SIR ANDREW DE MORAVIA, died between 6th November 1297 and 10th November 1300. He was taken prisoner at Dunbar in 1296 and sent to the Tower of London, where he died. He married, first, a daughter of Sir John Comyn of Badenoch, and had :—

(a) Sir Andrew (No. 9).

He married, second, in 1286, Euphemia, widow of William Comyn of Kilbride. She died 1288, and the Scots Peerage suggests she may be ancestress of the Murrays of Cockpool.

Arms on Seal, 1296.—Three stars of six points within a bordure charged with eleven roundels (Laing's Seals). [Plate II., fig. 3.]

- (9) SIR ANDREW MORAY. He was mortally wounded at the battle of Stirling Bridge, 11th September 1297, fighting for Sir William Wallace. It is not known whom he married, but he had a posthumous son :—
- (10) SIR ANDREW MORAY, died 1338. He was a strong supporter of King Robert Bruce. By his first wife, whose name is unknown, he had two sons :—
- (a) Sir John (No. 11).
 - (b) Sir Thomas (No. 12).
- He married, second, Christian Bruce, sister of King Robert.
- (11) SIR JOHN MORAY, LORD OF BOTHWELL, died s.p. before 5th September 1351. He married, 1348, Margaret Graham, heiress of the Earldom of Menteith, and was succeeded by his brother :—

- (12) SIR THOMAS MORAY, LORD OF BOTHWELL, died s.p. 1361. He married Johanna, daughter and heiress of Sir Maurice Moray of Drumsargard, Earl of Strathearn (No. 250a), but had no issue by her. His widow afterwards married Archibald "the Grim," third Earl of Douglas, who then acquired the Lordship of Bothwell.

Arms on Seal, 1357.—Three stars (2 and 1) within a bordure charged with eight roundels (Laing's Seals). [Plate II., fig. 4.]

In the Armorial de Gelre, c. 1369, under title "Lourt a Morref.—Azure, three stars argent. [Plate II., fig. 5.]

Note.—It is curious that the earliest appearance of the Royal tressure on the Moray or Murray Arms is on the Garter Plate, still existing, of James, ninth and last Earl of Douglas, who was created a Knight of the Garter 1461. The third quarter is for Moray of Bothwell—Azure, three stars argent within a double tressure flory-counter-flory or. [Plate II., fig. 6.]

The Earls of Sutherland.

Principal Authority—Sir William Fraser's Sutherland Book.

- (13) HUGH, second son of Freskin (No. 1), died about 1214. He obtained the lands of Sutherland, and was succeeded by his son:—
- (14) WILLIAM, LORD OF SUTHERLAND, died 1248. He was created EARL OF SUTHERLAND about 1235, and left a son:—
- (15) WILLIAM, SECOND EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died about 1307. He swore fealty to King Edward I. in 1296. He had two sons:—
 (a) William (No. 16).
 (b) Kenneth (No. 17).
- (16) WILLIAM, THIRD EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died c. 1327. He fought on Bruce's side at Bannockburn in 1314, and, dying without issue, was succeeded by his brother:—
- (17) KENNETH, FOURTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, killed at Halidon Hill 20th July 1333. He married Mary, daughter of Donald, tenth Earl of Mar, and had issue:—
 (a) William (No. 18).
 (b) Nicholas, ancestor of Sutherland of Duffus (No. 42).
- (18) WILLIAM, FIFTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died 1370. In 1343 he married, first, Margaret, daughter of King Robert Bruce. She died before 1352. He married, second, Johanna Menteith, Countess of Strathearn and widow of Sir Maurice Moray (No. 250a), Earl of Strathearn. He had three sons:—
 (a) John Sutherland, died v.p. 1361 without issue.
 (b) Robert (No. 19).
 (c) Kenneth, ancestor of Sutherland of Forse (No. 24).
- Arms on Seal, 1357.—Three stars (Laing's Seals).
 In the Armorial de Gelre, c. 1369, under title "Count a Suderlant"—Or, three stars gules, evidently a mistake, as the Arms should be Gules, three stars or. [Plate II., fig. 7.]
- (19) ROBERT, SIXTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died 1442. He married Margaret Stewart, daughter of Alexander, Earl of Buchan, and had three sons:—
 (a) John (No. 20).
 (b) Robert Sutherland.
 (c) Alexander Sutherland.
- (20) JOHN, SEVENTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died 1460. He married Margaret, daughter of Sir William Baillie of Lamington, and had four sons:—
 (a) Alexander, Master of Sutherland, died v.p. and s.p. before 1456.
 (b) John (No. 21).
 (c) Nicolas Sutherland.
 (d) Thomas Beg Sutherland.
 He had also a natural son:—
 (e) Thomas More, who had two sons, killed by the eighth Earl of Sutherland.

- (21) JOHN, EIGHTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died 1508. He married Catherine —, who survived him, and had :—

(a) John (No. 22).

(b) Elizabeth (No. 23).

He had also two natural sons by Miss Ross of Balnagown :—

(c) Alexander Sutherland, died 1520. He is said to have married a Mackay, and had a son :—

(1) John Sutherland.

(d) George Sutherland.

Arms on Seal, 1492.—Three stars of six points. CREST: A stag's head (Sutherland Book).

- (22) JOHN, NINTH EARL OF SUTHERLAND, died s.p. 1514, and was succeeded by his sister :—

- (23) ELIZABETH, COUNTESS OF SUTHERLAND, died 1535. She married Adam Gordon, second son of George, Earl of Huntly. Their descendants of the name of Gordon were the tenth to the seventeenth Earls of Sutherland. The only daughter of the last Gordon Earl married, in 1785, George, second Marquis of Stafford, who was created Duke of Sutherland in 1833, and their great-grandson is the fourth Duke and twenty-first Earl of Sutherland.

Arms in Sir David Lindsay's MS., 1542.—Gules, three stars (2 and 1) or.

Note.—The double tressure flory-counter-flory or was granted to John, fifteenth Earl, in 1718. [Plate II., fig. 8.]

Forse.

Principal Authority—Burke's Landed Gentry.

- (24) KENNETH SUTHERLAND, third son of William, fifth Earl of Sutherland (No. 18). He had a charter of the lands of Forse, 16th June 1408, and was succeeded by his son :—

- (25) JOHN SUTHERLAND OF FORSE, living 1451, whose son was :—

- (26) RICHARD SUTHERLAND OF FORSE, father of :—

- (27) JOHN SUTHERLAND OF FORSE, died before 21st November 1539, who was served heir to his father 28th May 1471. His son was :—

- (40) GEORGE SUTHERLAND OF FORSE, CO. CAITHNESS, born 1827; died 20th April 1905. He was served heir to his brother 17th January 1848, and married, the same year, Mary, daughter of William G. Sheppard of Lamogue, Co. Waterford, who died 9th November 1884, having had :—
- (41) CAPTAIN JOHN WILLIAM SUTHERLAND OF FORSE, born 1851; died 23rd March 1909. He married, 1881, Louisa, daughter of Colonel Charles G. Walsh, and had five daughters.

The Lords Duffus.

Principal Authorities—Sutherland Book and Scots Peerage.

- (42) NICHOLAS SUTHERLAND, second son of Kenneth, fourth Earl of Sutherland (No. 17). He was living 1360, and acquired with his wife part of the Barony of Duffus in Moray, and also lands in Caithness. He married Mary, daughter and co-heiress of Reginald le Cheyne and his wife, Mary, Lady of Duffus. They had issue :—

(a) John Sutherland, Lord of Duffus 1408-27, died s.p.

(b) Henry (No. 43).

Arms of Cheyne.—Azure, a bend between eight cross crosslets fitchy argent (Sir David Lindsay's MS., 1542). [Plate II., fig. 11.]

- (43) HENRY SUTHERLAND, died before 1434. He received the lands of Torboll, and married Margaret Mureff or Moray.

Arms on Seal, "Henrici de Suthirlande," probably this Henry Sutherland.—On a bend between three cross crosslets fitchy as many stars (Laing's Seals). [Plate II., fig. 12.]

They had a son :—

The Murrays of Atholl.

The Murrays of Atholl.

CHAPTER II.

The Murrays of Atholl.

Principal Authority—Scots Peerage.

THE most probable origin of this family is given in the Scots Peerage as follows : On referring to No. 86 of this work, it will be seen that John Murray, elder son of Sir Malcolm Murray, settled about 1284 the lands of Aldie on his younger brother, William. According to the charters of Inchaffray, Gilbert, Earl of Strathearn, granted the lands of Aldie to his daughter, Matilda, on her marriage with Malcolm, Earl of Fife, who died about 1228. Sir Robert Douglas in his Peerage says that Walter Moray of Bothwell (No. 6 of this book) married a daughter of the Earl of Fife; but the Scots Peerage says that it was Walter's father—Sir William Moray of Bothwell (No. 5),—died before 1253, who married a daughter of Malcolm, Earl of Fife. If these statements are correct, the lands of Aldie came from the Earl of Strathearn to his daughter and her husband, Malcolm, Earl of Fife. The lands then passed to their daughter, who married Sir William Moray of Bothwell (No. 5), and from them to their son, Sir Malcolm Murray (No. 86), probably named after the Earl of Fife, and who was the first of the Atholl family. According to this, Sir Malcolm Murray was second son of Sir William Moray (No. 5).

The earlier writers thought that Sir Malcolm Murray (No. 86) was a son of a John Moray, Sheriff of Perth, supposed to be a son of Hugh Moray of Duffus (No. 2, a), but there is no evidence to support this view, and as there were two, if not three, John Morays living at that time, this suggested origin has been abandoned.

The head of these Murrays is the seventh and present Duke of Atholl, and the cadets became Earls of Dunmore, Lords Nairne, Viscounts Stormont, Earls of Mansfield, and Earls of Dysart. The other cadets were the Baronets of Glendoick, the Murrays of Ayton, Pitcaithly, Lintrose, Dollary, Arbenie, Pitcullen, Dollerie, Woodend, Strowan, and Tippermore.

(86) SIR MALCOLM MURRAY or DE MORAVIA died before 1289. He was witness to a charter granted by Malise, Earl of Strathearn, between 1251 and 1263. He was Sheriff of Perth about 1276, and is said to have married the daughter and heiress of Gilbert of Gask, with whom he got that property. He had two sons:—

(a) John Murray, who gave his lands of Culnacloich and Ruthreelan in Strathbogie about 1284 and the lands of Aldie to his brother, William.

Arms on Seal.—A bull passant to sinister crossing water, above its back a star of six points. [Plate III., fig. 5.]

(b) William (No. 87).

Arms on Seal.—Three stars, with a label of three points in chief (Laing's Seals). [Plate III., fig. 6.]

Note.—This seal is inscribed "S. Malcolmi de Moravia," but may not belong to this Malcolm.

- (87) SIR WILLIAM MURRAY got the above-mentioned lands from his brother. He married before 28th October 1284 Ada, daughter of Sir Malise, Steward of Strathearn, with whom he got the western half of the lands of Tullibardine.

Arms on Seal, 1296.—A chevron between three stars, a label of three points in chief (Laing's Seals). [Plate III., fig. 7.]

He was succeeded by his son:—

- (88) ANDREW MURRAY OF TULLIBARDINE. He sided with Edward Baliol, was taken prisoner 7th October 1332, and executed for treason. His son was:—
- (89) SIR WILLIAM MURRAY OF TULLIBARDINE. In 1341 he had regained the lands of Tullibardine, and was still living in 1352. His successor was:—
- (90) SIR JOHN MURRAY OF TULLIBARDINE, who was followed by:—
- (91) WALTER MURRAY OF TULLIBARDINE, died 1390. He married Margaret le Barde, who survived apparently till 1412. Their son apparently was:—
- (92) SIR DAVID MURRAY, living 1389. He is said to have married Isobel, daughter of Sir John Stewart of Innermeath and Lorn, who brought the Stewart Arms to the Murrays. His son was probably:—
- (93) SIR DAVID MURRAY OF TULLIBARDINE, who was served heir to his grandmother, Margaret le Barde, in Aldie, 19th May 1432. He married Margaret, probably daughter of Sir John Colquhoun of Luss.

The Morays of Abercairny.

PEDIGREE V. The Morays of Abercairny.

CHAPTER IV.

The Morays of Abercairny.

Principal Authorities—Douglas' Baronage, Burke's Landed Gentry, and Inchaffray Charters.

ACCORDING to Douglas' Baronage the Morays of Abercairny were descended from a William de Moravia, said to be second son of Sir Andrew, Lord of Bothwell (No. 8), but there is no evidence in support of this claim (see Riddell's Stewartiana).

(249) SIR WILLIAM DE MORAVIA, died about 1300. He was father of:—

(250) SIR JOHN MORAY OF DRUMSARGARD. Married Maria, daughter of Malise, sixth Earl of Strathearn. About 1320 her father granted her the lands of Abercairny. They had issue:—

(?) (a) Sir Maurice Moray, created EARL OF STRATHEARN in 1344, killed 1346, who married Johanna, Countess of Strathearn. His daughter, Johanna, married, first, Sir Thomas Moray of Bothwell (No. 12); and, second, Archibald "the Grim," third Earl of Douglas.

Arms on her Seal, 1401.—Two shields: the dexter per pale (Douglas and Galloway); the sinister shield, three stars, for Moray (Macdonald's Seals).

Note.—It is not certain that this Sir Maurice was a son of Sir John of Drumsargard. It is certain that he did not become Earl of Strathearn in right of his mother. He was created partly on his own merits, and also because he had married Johanna, Countess of Strathearn; but who this Johanna was is unknown.

(b) Sir Alexander (No. 251).

(c) Walter Moray, said to be ancestor of Moray of Ogilface, Stirling, now extinct.

(251) SIR ALEXANDER MORAY OF OGILVY AND ABERCAIRNY, served heir to his father 1349. He married Janet, daughter of William, Earl of Ross, and had a son:—

(252) SIR ANDREW MORAY OF OGILVY AND ABERCAIRNY. Married Agnes, daughter of Sir Humphry Cunningham of Glengarnock, and had:—

- (253) SIR HUMPHREY MORAY OF OGILVY AND ABERCAIRNY, living 1473. He married Catherine, daughter of Alexander, father of the first Lord Graham, and had a son :—
- (254) ANDREW MORAY OF OGILVY AND ABERCAIRNY. He was served heir to his father 24th May 1504, was a Member of Assize 28th June 1513 (Criminal Trials), and was killed at Flodden 9th September following. He married Margaret, daughter of Alexander Robertson of Strowan, and had issue :—
- (a) George (No. 255).
 - (b) Sir Humphrey Moray, died s.p.
 - (c) Robert Moray.
- (255) GEORGE MORAY, killed at Flodden with his father 9th September 1513. He married Agnes Lindsay, and had a son :—
- (256) JOHN MORAY OF ABERCAIRNY AND OGILVY, killed at battle of Pinkie, 1547. He was served heir to his grandfather 13th November 1513. He married Nicola Graham, daughter of William, second Earl of Montrose, and had issue :—
- (a) William (No. 257).
 - (b) Robert (No. 258).
 - (c) Robert (secundus) Moray, died s.p.
- (257) WILLIAM MORAY OF ABERCAIRNY, died s.p. 1558. He was served heir to his father 16th May 1548. He married, contract dated 13th May 1553, Margaret, daughter of Laurence, third Lord Oliphant, who died 17th August 1580, and was succeeded by his brother :—
- (258) ROBERT MORAY OF ABERCAIRNY. Will recorded 19th December 1595 (Edinburgh). He married, contract dated 7th September 1560, Katherine, daughter of Sir William Murray of Tullibardine (No. 96), and had :—
- (a) Sir William (No. 259).
 - (b) Sir David Moray of Gorthy, died s.p.
 - (c) Sir Mungo Moray of Craigie. Married a daughter of George Halkett of Pitfirran, and had :—
 - (1) Sir Robert Moray, Lord Justice Clerk.

The Murrays of Falahill.

PEDIGREE VI.

The Murrays of Falahill.

CHAPTER V.

The Murrays of Falahill.

Principal Authority—Scots Peerage.

AS the first recorded ancestor of this family belonged to Peeblesshire, it is probable that the Murrays of Falahill and Cockpool had a common origin. From Falahill descended the Murrays of Philiphaugh, Deuchar, Priestfield, the Baronets of Melgund, Romanno, the Baronets of Stanhope, Broughton in Peeblesshire, Cardon, the later Murrays, Baronets of Blackbarony, Cringletie, Henderland, Lords Elibank, and the Baronets of Dunerne.

As regards the present family of Blackbarony and its cadets, it was generally believed that they were descended from the original Murrays of Blackbarony, but the Scots Peerage proves that the original family sold Blackbarony to a John Murray in 1507, who appears on record as assignee of the executors of William Murray in Sundhope, his father's brother. William Murray in Sundhope was undoubtedly the son of John Murray of Falahill (No. 274), so John Murray, who purchased Blackbarony, and all his descendants must belong to Falahill also.

(270) ARCHIBALD DE MORAVIA, IN PEEBLESSHIRE, died before 1321. He signed the Ragman Roll 1296. He was father of:—

(a) Malcolm, who also signed 1296.

(b) Roger (No. 271).

(271) ROGER DE MORAVIA. On 1st September 1321 he had a grant of the lands of Fala and Heriot, in Midlothian, and was father of:—

(272) ALEXANDER DE MORAVIA, living 1380, father of:—

(273) PATRICK MURRAY OF FALAHILL, living 1413, father of:—
